The Pathfinder School community recently had the good fortune of working with Curtis Kuttnauer, of Kuttnauer Search Group in conducting its nation-wide search for its head of school. We were extremely gratified with the successful outcome and are indebted to Curtis for his professional leadership in making it happen.

In his preparation for working with Pathfinder, Curtis designed a participatory process uniquely suited for our school - a shirtsleeves up, collaborative endeavor that garnered the engagement of every committee member and served as a catalyst for renewal for the Pathfinder community. The broad-based search committee was guided and schooled in crafting the position profile, interviewing and hosting prospective candidates and ultimately in selecting a match congruent with the Pathfinder culture and vision of its ideal future.

Curtis's superb organizational skills and consistent communication helped to keep the committee on task. All inquiries and submissions were promptly acknowledged, the school was well presented in its best light and the process was completed within our projected timeline. Curtis was very accommodating to our budgetary concerns and structured a process that was affordable and effective.

The Pathfinder community has been energized by this experience and looks forward to building on a strong legacy that has been revitalized.
